

SUFFRAGIST WHO THINKS WOMEN ARE
SPOILED BY PETTING

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

PARTIES JOIN IN
LORIMER FIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(Republicans and Democrats alike are united today in an effort to defeat the Lorimer and Jackson factions of the Republican party in the fall elections. The campaign is to be made in the General Assembly and it is freely predicted by politicians of the reform element that the Democrats will control both houses when the smoke of battle clears away.

Drifting a platform was begun today by members of the Democratic Executive Committee and the Republicans will begin drafting their platform Monday.

Roger Sullivan is in control of the Democratic campaign, although the Hearst money state made deep inroads into his power.

The defeat of Representative Henry Shugart, charged with reforming the Senate, will be a great victory for the reform element, but the Democrats will not run again.

CUPID'S SHAFT WOULD CUT HIS PATRIMONY

IN the terms of the will of the late William H. Gatchell, died in the Indian Police Court, Frederick Gatchell, son of the testator, is barred from following in the footsteps of Robert Channing. If he marries he must lose half of his income or, at least, a part, and the principal is to be given him. After the death of the son and his mother the property will be divided among his many nieces.

"SUN BROWN" IS THE FASHIONABLE
COMPLEXION THIS SEASON

You will find that in acquiring the desired tan that Murray's Lotion is the most convenient relief from sunburn. It reduces the inflammation, prevents the skin from peeling, removes the redness, but—leaves the tan. It is the ideal remedy for all summer ailments, such as sunburn, prickly heat, poison ivy, and insect bites. When applied to the affected parts inflammation and irritation soon disappear under its soothing influence.

It is a necessity in your vacation outfit; take it with you instead of sending back for it.

A few applications used according to the simple directions given with each bottle will convince you that the best remedy is Murray's Lotion. For sale at all druggists in 25 cent and 50 cent bottles.

WOMEN HERE
SPOILED, SAYS
MRS. BELMONT

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—"The American woman has been spoiled by men," alleged Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont at the 27th avenue suffrage headquarters. "She has been petted and pampered and treated as a toy. Jewels and riches and leisure of all sorts have been lavished upon her, and practically nothing has been expected of her in return."

"The result is that, although naturally born and clever, she has become an irresponsible creature, capable of accomplishing good work in the world, but ignorant of how to set about it. She knows little or nothing of household economy and financial affairs are a sealed book to her."

"Now, the English woman is a very different sort of person. She is accustomed to a certain definite allegiance on which to run the house, and to another for her social and personal expenses. She knows the amount of her husband's income and she knows just what must be done with it. She understands public and social life. She knows who she wants to vote for. She knows who she wants to vote against. All classes of Englishwomen are like this."

"That is something," continued Mrs. Belmont, "that the American woman must learn to do before they can hope to attain political and economical equality with men."

Mr. Belmont wanted to know what plans had developed out of Mrs. Belmont's conference with Mrs. Charles Murray in Paris.

"Why, I had a long talk with Mrs. Murray," she said, "but we didn't say much about suffrage."

Mrs. Belmont could not say just when the English women would get the ballot, but she declared they would have it long before the American women did.

Mutt and Jeff
Back Again

Readers of the Boston American will be interested in the announcement that Mutt and Jeff have returned from their European vacation. A particularly amusing advertisement of Mutt and Jeff will be printed in the editions in to-morrow's Boston Sunday American.

JAILED MAYOR ASKS
FOR NEW TRIAL

LAWRENCE, Sept. 17.—The first stirrings in a new trial for Mayor William White of Lawrence, and George B. Stuart, one of the business men of Lawrence, convicted of complicity in the "bathery case," was taken when Attorney Michael L. Sullivan, attorney for both, at a conference with District Attorney W. Scott Peters, asked him to approve the bill of exceptions that will later be heard by the Supreme Court. The District Attorney announced that he would examine the papers and make known his decision later.

HULL GAINS 1,657
AND ONE LICENSE

HULL, Sept. 17.—The people of Hull are delighted over the jump in the town's population of 1,657 in the last decade, as shown by the census statement of 1910, which gives a total of 3,500 "bonds." Hull is now still ahead of Cohasset, and only third behind Hingham. The figures allow another yearly increase, making three in all.

PRINCE HAUN DUE
HERE ON SEPT. 23

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Prince Tsai Huan, brother of the Prince Regent of China, accompanied by Admiral Seb, who are scheduled to reach Niagara Falls on September 22. The prince and his suite, who have planned to go to Boston, via Albany, arriving there on September 23. From Boston they will go to New York on September 24.

IRISH LEAGUE MEETS.

Boston Central Branch and Council, United Irish League of America, will meet at the American House to-morrow evening for further arrangements for the coming week. The meeting will be held at 10 P. M. and his brother enters from Ireland.

RECLAIMING
THE DIRT.

A striking double page article on the work of irrigation in the West, illustrated with remarkable photographs. See TOMORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Sensational values in profusion throughout
45 Distinct Sections in
This Great Home Store.

Jordan Marsh Company

OUR GREAT BASEMENT STORE

"A Store Within a Store" for the Sale of the Less Expensive Lines of Goods

Extraordinary Fall Bargain Sale

$75,000 New Fall Merchandise

To Be Sold At $\frac{1}{3}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ Regular Prices

In Our Great Basement Store

Hundreds of Unmatchable Bargains, Surpassing in Value
Any Offered Before in Our Great Basement Store
Read Every Item—Each One Tells of a Wonderful Saving
Also Countless Other Equally Fine Bargains too Numerous to Mention

About 10,000 Pieces of Women's Underwear

Gowns, Covers, Skirts, Sweaters, Drawers and Chemises in This Great Sale

At Practically Cost Prices

This Genuine
"Heather-
bloom"
Petticoat
89c
Worth 1.50

Made with a deep tucked flounce and shirring, deep under flounce. 89c

This Very Pretty
CORSET
COVER
21c
Worth 20c-50c

We also include in this assortment a miscellaneous lot of handsome covers prettily lace & emb. trimmed, 21c

Handsome Silk
Petticoat
1.69
Worth 2.98

Good quality, medium full width, full flared tucked flounce, deep under ruffle, black only. 1.69

69c Long Chemises—Yoke lace trimmed, run with ribbon, skirt tucked, edged with val. lace. 49c

89c Masonville Gowns—Made full width and length, yoke of fine hemstitched tucks, high and V neck. 65c

79c and 98c Gowns—An odd lot of well made garments, prettily trimmed with fine laces and embs, high, low and sq. neck. 59c

39c and 50c Drawers—Made full width, good quality cotton, ruffle edge, with fine val. lace and insertion. 25c

Women's 1.98 to 2.50 Sweaters—Plain and fancy weave pockets and heavy pearl button trimmed, white, gray, cardinal. 1.59

Women's 50c Flannelette Gowns—Full size, good quality, pink and blue stripes. 39c

1.00 Royal Worcester Corsets—Discontin- ed styles. 39c

3.50 Silk Petticoats—Black and all desirable shades, including changeable, made full width, with deep tucked and strapped flounces with under ruffle. 2.39

Women's 25c Drawers—Good quality cotton, full width, lawn or cambric ruffle hemstitched tucks. 19c

69c Night Gowns—Chemise style, made full width, yoke of fine embroidery run with ribbon. 49c

29c Short Flannelette Skirts—Made of daisy cloth, full width, white only, scalloped edge of buttonhole stitching. 21c

1.29 All Wool Sweaters—In red and fancy color combinations, sizes 6 to 16 years. 79c

Dress Goods

1.25 All-Wool Broadcloth—50 inch. Good variety, new fall shades. 69c
1.50 Diagonal Serge Suits—50 in. wide, 10 leading shades. 59c
75c Black Panama—55c 50 in. strictly all wool

Wash Goods

8c & 10c Printed Batiste—In dots, stripes, checks and floral effects; also canvas weave suits and slips. 5 1/2c
15c Chambray Gingham—Foulards and Poppins—32 in. wide, 10 to 20 yd. lengths, all colors. 7 1/2c
19c Figured Poppins and Silk Stripe Madras—32 in. wide, in variety of effects. 10c
15c Figured Poppins—Persian designs, all colors. 7 1/2c

Silks

50c Plain and Figured Poppins—Fine line of colors; Plain and self-colored; polka dots. Special value 39c
1.00 Silk Suitings—Herringbone weaves, 1 1/2 yd. wide, black, brown and navy. 48c
59c Colored Satin Mesasines—All the wanted shades with plenty of black, white & navy. Good strong silk 29c
75c Black Peau De Cygne—40 good waist and dress quality. 55c
75c Black Sateen De Chine—Yarn dyed lustrous and tightly. 49c

Linen

39c Mercerized Damask—60 in. wide, heavy quality and a good selection of patterns. 29c
1.00 Heavy Damask Napkins—20 in. square, fast salvage. 75c
29c Extra Heavy Turkish Towel—Large size. 19c
29c Hemstitched Scarfs—With one row of fagoting. Size 18 x 54. 19c
30 x 30 Shams to match. 19c
15c Hemstitched Towels—Mercerized. Good size. 10c

Art Embroidery

Floss Pillows
18 in. Worth 25c at. 19c
20 in. Worth 35c at. 25c
22 in. Worth 39c at. 29c
24 in. Worth 50c at. 39c
26 in. Worth 65c at. 49c
39c Sofa Pillow Slips—A good assortment, all made in beautiful burlap and linen effects. 19c

Notions

8c Sewing Silk, 100 yds. 5c
—All colors.
3c (Spool) Cotton, 100 yds. 5c
—Black & white, all sizes. Three spools for 5c
10c (doz.) Pearl Buttons—Shirt waist size, both two and four holes; plain or fancy. 7c

America's Greatest Credit House

WASHBURN

TRUSTS THE PEOPLE FOR

HATS
SHOES
CLOTHING
JEWELRY
MILLINERY
FURNISHINGS
Suits $10 $25

Whole Family Clothed
No Money Down
A Dollar a Week

WASHBURN DEPARTMENT STORE
630 Washington St., Opposite Boylston St.
Open Evenings Elevator Service

Bed Clothing

15c Pillow Cases—11c
42 x 56 and 46 x 36—Size
95c Cohasset Sheets—Size
81 x 99, made of Pequot
sheeting. 79c
35c Sheet—2 1/2 yds. 24c
wide, Atlantic brand.
1.50 Crochet Hemmed
Spread—For full size bed. 1.10

4.50 Wool Blankets—11 1/4 size, silk binding, blue and pink borders. 3.19
2.00 Silkoline Comforters—Both sides covered alike, filled with carded cotton. 1.49

White Goods

2.25 Imperial English Nainsook—36 inches, soft finish, two cuts to a 12 yard piece. 1.75
25c White Goods—Figured and striped Madras, Poplins, fancy striped muslin, also cross banded muslin, 27 inches wide. 19c
17c White Goods—Cross bar and striped muslins, figured and striped Madras, spotted muslin, etc. 27 in. wide. 12c

Silverware

25c Nut Sets—6 Picks and 1 Cracker, nickel silver.
39c Cream Ladles—Cold Meat Forks and Preserver Spoons. At extra plain. 12c
75c (dozen) Coffee Spoons—Good grade plating. Bread pattern. Price a doz. 25c

Handkerchiefs

Women's 25c Plaid Handkerchiefs—Pure linen. 11c
Men's 7c Cotton Handkerchiefs—Now 25c 6 for.

Ribbons

29c Striped Pillow Ribbons—4 inches wide. 19c
15c to 29c Taffeta Satin and Moire Ribbons—5 1/2 inches wide, assorted colors. 15c

Flannels

59c Embroidered Flannel—Fine goods embroidered with pure silk. 39c
37c Scotch Flannels—Good pattern. 19c

Embroideries

25c Corset Cover Embroideries—In handsome patterns, open and blind effects, mostly cambric. a yard. 15c
35c and 37c Skirtings—10 to 18 inches, hand-embroidered on Swiss and cambric, in open and blind effects, a yard. 21c
50c Allover—22 inches wide; a large variety of patterns, including English eyelet, small and medium effects, very desirable; extraordinary values. 29c
25c Fancy Madras Skirtings—Also lawn and lace stripe, muslin. 15c

Leather Goods

1.00 Hand Bags—Made of English eyelet, small and medium effects, very desirable; extraordinary values. 79c
1.25 English Long Cloth—12 yds. to a piece. 85c

Jewelry

50c Barrettes—Best Hold Brand. Guaranteed unbreakable. Shell and Amber. 19c
69c to 1.50 Fancy Stone Set Back Combs—In an assortment of designs. 39c

Toilet Goods

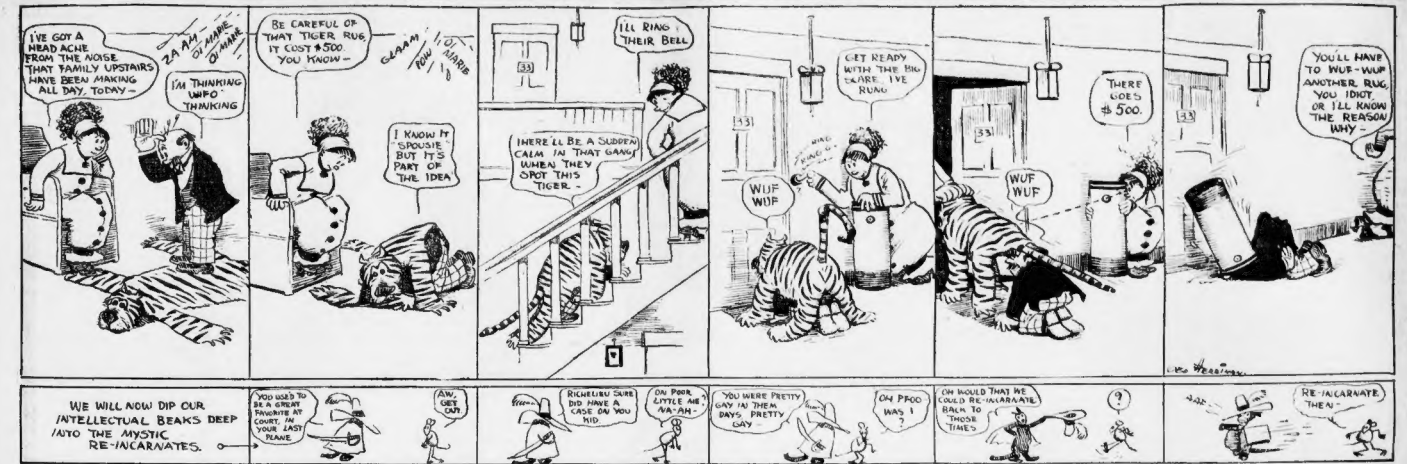

10c Violet Toilet Ammonia. 7c
50c to 75c Bath Brushes—With toilet detachable handle. 29c
50c Lazzell's Standard Perfumes—1 oz. bottle, glass stopper, fancy box, assorted colors. 25c

Braids

89c New Persian Beltings—Figlines of colorings. Per yard. 55c
1.00 Persian and Tinsel Beltings—New colorings. Per yard. 59c

22 Bargain Tables Loaded With Sensational Bargains
2 Great Bargain Aisles That Defy Comparison For Real Values

The Family Upstairs—Dingbat Does Some Heavy Thinking, and Then--- & By Herriman

WED AFTER 50 YEARS ROMANCE

A romance which began in Newton over fifty years ago led to the marriage in Los Angeles, Cal., of George H. Rogers, a wealthy ranch owner, and Eleanor Moore, Hitchcock Cobb, who first met the groom when he was a clerk in the Newton Post office before the Civil War.

When the first call for troops was sent throughout the country, young Rogers, who had been one of the first to enlist, went to the front bearing with him the promise of Eleanor Hitchcock, to become his wife when he returned. During his long absence, through the dreary struggle in Europe, she waited for him, and when he returned, she was still waiting for him.

After the war, Mr. Rogers and Mrs. Cobb went to California, but did not meet again until 1890, when Mr. Rogers, who had married a second time, was in Los Angeles, and Mrs. Cobb, who had married a second time, was in Los Angeles. The couple will reside in Los Angeles.

Special Notice.

DIABETES

The most valuable result of 20 years work at the University of Chicago, is the discovery of a new and powerful remedy for Diabetes, a disease which has been a scourge to the human race for centuries. It is a new and powerful remedy, and it is a new and powerful remedy.

Spurns Bride Who Giggles.

FAUNTON, MASS.—Because his bride-to-be giggled when he was having the carriage driven off at the City Hall here, William F. Harvey, who said he would not marry her, declined to go further toward matrimony and left the bride-to-be in the lurch. The bride-to-be, who was named Miss Giggles, is now in the lurch.

RECLAIMING THE DESERTS.

ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT.—The desert is being reclaimed by the use of the water of the Nile. The water of the Nile is being used to reclaim the desert.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

"Dimpled Dan" Cupid's Doings

Wants Cowboy "Hubby."

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Seeking a nice young cowboy of the city and county variety, who wears leather "shells" and who is able to ride a buck, Miss Mabel Clark of Brooklyn has written Deputy Sheriff George Heston of San Bernardino. She says she wants to marry the deputy sheriff.

Groom 92, Bride 44.

CHICAGO.—Venerable Edly Rogers became all round in Cook County when he appeared before Marriage Clerk Sullivan and secured a license to wed. Miss Helen Cooper, of 2722 Gladys avenue, said he would be thirty-four on September 17, and his bride was forty-four. The marriage ceremony was performed in the courthouse.

Bride Too Old; Goes to Jail.

PITTSBURGH.—"She's too old to jail," said the judge today when he sentenced a woman to jail for being too old to marry. The woman was 44 years old, and the man was 24 years old. The judge said she was too old to marry him.

Three Wives in Seven Months.

ELKHART, Ind.—When Arthur Wagner, a carpenter, was married here, it developed that he had possessed the third wife within a period of seven months. He was divorced from his first wife on May 25, and married another the next day. A few weeks later he was divorced from his second wife, and married a third.

RECLAIMING THE DESERTS.

ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT.—The desert is being reclaimed by the use of the water of the Nile. The water of the Nile is being used to reclaim the desert.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

FEAR BOSTON VESSEL LOST

The four-masted schooner, J. C. Strawberry, owned by Arthur L. Crowley of No. 710 Columbia road, Dorchester, and bound for Philadelphia to a Cuban port, is a month overdue. It is feared here that she was lost in a hurricane along the Bermudas.

The Strawberry left Philadelphia August 8, laden with coal, in charge of Captain R. C. Army of Camden, Me. With Captain Army was his wife. The passage is usually made in two weeks or less, and forty days have passed without tidings of the Strawberry. Vessels arriving in the last two or three weeks report a terrible storm along the Bermudas from August 20 to 24. Passengers would have since found out whether the Strawberry should not have arrived in China weeks ago if it had not been lost.

SCATES MAY PRESIDE IN MAINE HOUSE

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17.—John Clark Scates of Westbrook, a member-elect of the legislature, said today he is not a candidate for United States Senator in succession to Senator Hale, of Maine, who is to run for Speaker of the House.

RECLAIMING THE DESERTS.

ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT.—The desert is being reclaimed by the use of the water of the Nile. The water of the Nile is being used to reclaim the desert.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

VAHEY PLEADS FOR POLITICAL HARMONY

Battle all shortcomings and evasions in this great party line. It is right here and now up to us and our countrymen will not stand for any further deluding. It is Massachusetts going to challenge her old enemies in moral and political badness, or will she absolutely abdicate. It is in this matter of whether or not she will defend standard Federal leaders. Will Massachusetts, the country, be asking it, not this time, "did forgive her," as was said by her great poet in the days of her cotton whiz, "and with the red, but with the white, the red are standing up like the American freemen?"

When I think of these things, I feel how petty are all our personal ambitions or differences after all. How we ought to devote all our political energies and efforts perhaps to this one thing more than any other, the election of a legislator who will prevent this misdeed in Massachusetts.

defeating Senator Lodge. —James R. Vahey at last night's rally in Everett.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

DEATH CLAIMS AGED MALDEN MEN

Death has claimed two of the oldest citizens of Malden. Adam Heine, eighty-three, died at his home, 100 Washington street, after fifty years' residence in the city. He was a native of Germany and had been a resident of Malden for fifty years.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

BARS CHURCH LEAGUE SUNDAY BALL GAME

Mayor Fitzgerald has turned down the application of Attorney William B. Schaefer, representing the All-Church Baseball League, in which he asked for a permit to hold a game at the New York Central and other prominent eastern railroad men.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

REV. A. J. RYDEN TO PREACH

Rev. A. J. Ryden, the well-known Swedish preacher, will hold services at the Lutheran Hall, Mapledown, next Sunday at 2 p. m.

BAR WOMAN 43 YEARS RESIDENT

Unless the Dedham friends she knew for forty-three years come to her aid, Annie Walsh, aged sixty, who has just returned from a trip to Ireland, will have to be deported as an alien. Miss Walsh came over on the White Star liner Zealand from Greenstown. Her race, while pathetic, is also unusual. Just how to deal with her has been a puzzle to the immigration authorities.

"Cousinhood of Immigration George B. Billings has interested himself in her behalf. A board of special inquiry, called to consider the case, today made its report that if it can find any way out of it, Miss Walsh will not be deported. It is admitted that she was not naturalized, but she has no legal claim to enter, as she might soon become a public charge.

Miss Walsh was formerly an inmate of a home for the aged at Dedham. The home was abandoned and she had no relatives in America. She still had her rest of her days of old and decided to pass the rest of her days in Ireland. Arriving there she found her husband and friends had died and then she determined to come back to Dedham.

Miss Walsh's friends, who are now in Dedham, are doing all they can to help her. They are doing all they can to help her.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

WOMEN WILL WEAR VELVETS THIS FALL

"Velvets will be worn this Fall and Winter on the street, indoors and in the evening. Many cloaks will be of velvet, and there is never anything more beautiful for the woman of good taste than the velvet gown. The velvet gown will be the most popular of the season. The velvet gown will be the most popular of the season.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

COMMISSION TO HEAR MULLEN ON RATES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Charles R. Mullen, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and acting president of the Boston & Maine railroad, will be given an opportunity to explain the New England railroad rates. Mr. Mullen will appear before the Interstate Commerce commission today.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

GLIDER GOES 12 MILES

ROME, Sept. 17.—Fernando Bernasconi, a native of Anzio, Italy, has invented a glider, which is able to float in mid-air and which consumes a horizontal position automatically. According to recent experiments a glider driven from a height of 1,000 meters floated twelve miles.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

YANKEE BUILDS NEW MONOPLANE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—American ingenuity at last has devised a monoplane that is able to equal the best performance of the biplane. The new monoplane has been built by the American ingenuity at last has devised a monoplane that is able to equal the best performance of the biplane.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Miss Carver, the greatest living beauty, describes this rarest treatment. Every woman on earth ought to read it. See TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

TO-MORROW'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

(Reprinted by Request from Last Sunday's Boston American)

Work for the Things You Wish For

By Herbert Kaufman

—Copyright, 1910, by Herbert Kaufman.

If you lot is severe—persevere. The more you try, the less you'll sigh. Rest before you're best, and you've failed in the test. Add will to skill and you'll grow as you go.

Without audacity and pertinacity, knowledge is not a force. Without intensity of purpose, intention is an empty impulse.

Only the thorough come through. The streets are crowded with men who just lack the wind to win—capable of success but chained to posts of insignificance by irresolution and hopelessness.

Leaders are ordinary persons with extraordinary determination. The difference between you and your superior is not so much a matter of physical or mental superiority as of application.

Victors are not basically stronger; they simply keep on longer. They last until they're first. They work a little faster and think a little clearer and are daring where you're sparing.

They develop more man-power per minute out of each muscular and mental cell—they strive for the things that you wish for.

In the words of Rasuli, "They want something; they know what they want; they want it hard enough, and they get it."

You are precisely what you deserve to be; you fit for what you're fitted for. Your status is tailored to measure. If you outgrow your robe of office, we'll give you a larger size. You won't have to proclaim your progress—you'll be as conspicuous as a gangling youth in high waters and short sleeves.

You'll show your proper form as inevitably as a butterfly splits his way out of his grub clothes.

We can't hold you down if you're a better man—but there's exactly one way that you can prove you have improved—YOU MUST DELIVER THE GOODS.

If you're obsessed with the notion that the majority are wronging you, it's time to realize that you must be wrong—no man who considers the world askew ever stood a ghost of a show.

Progress in a democracy is regulated by social gravity. Weaklings flop to the bottom and fighters battle to the top.

There was a time when privileges were regulated—when children inherited economic handicaps—when parentage predestined position.

But we dispensed with passes and pass keys in the year of 1776. The Minute Man sounded the signal for the Man of the Hour, and established by revolution a competition by evolution.

You make your way through life bearing a purse of ability. Fortune does not close her bazaar for one second. No matter at what hour you arrive, you'll find the Open Door.

You may enter and make your choice, but you can't purchase more than you can pay for. You lay down your limit in labor and in return you get the full reward that you earn.

If you steal ahead, your inefficiency will betray you and arrest your advancement. If you obtain promotion under false pretenses, your ignorance and weakness will indict you.

You may scheme and dream—connive and contrive until your hairs whiten, but you'll never find a substitute for HARD WORK.

You can't beat the game with half the energy and ingenuity frittered away in a fool attempt to cheat the same.

In Tomorrow's Boston Sunday American, Kaufman's Subject Is "THE TRAITOR." Be Sure and Get a Copy Tomorrow and Every Sunday. Tom Lawson Says of Kaufman "He is the Aeroplane of Modern Literature."

She Learns How the Love Game Is Played

A Romance of the Stage, Told from Behind the Scenes

CHAPTER I

The Leading Citizen

You do not know where Fairview is. It doesn't matter. The story only begins and ends there.

The rest of it has to do with the center of art and beautiful houses, of fortune and culture, of treasures and beauties which is known to the world as "little old New York."

It is a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

The Leading Citizen

You do not know where Fairview is. It doesn't matter. The story only begins and ends there.

The rest of it has to do with the center of art and beautiful houses, of fortune and culture, of treasures and beauties which is known to the world as "little old New York."

It is a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

"I've got a right to go where I please," said Hez. "All right," Tom retorted, "but keep on going."

CHAPTER II

The Widow's Son

Now, before Mrs. Wilson enters the presence of the father of the girl, let us explain that she is the mother of the boy.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

CHAPTER II

The Widow's Son

Now, before Mrs. Wilson enters the presence of the father of the girl, let us explain that she is the mother of the boy.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

Wilson died a good many years before the story began, leaving the boy and enough money to support him up to the age of twenty.

The Story of a Farmer's Son, a Show Girl, and the Girl He Left Behind

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal Company

He said, "You're growing so big I didn't know you'd fill the room."

"Remember me to your son, won't you?" said the widow, smiling at Hezekiah as she spoke, and he turned toward the door.

"Yes, thank you, I will tell him to go to the office now," he called back, and having finished his information he vanished through the portal and strode off down the sidewalk.

Backus was quick back at the widow's side, taking from the housemaid the few things she had brought, and returning from the little table were the door.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

The Story of a Farmer's Son, a Show Girl, and the Girl He Left Behind

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal Company

He said, "You're growing so big I didn't know you'd fill the room."

"Remember me to your son, won't you?" said the widow, smiling at Hezekiah as she spoke, and he turned toward the door.

"Yes, thank you, I will tell him to go to the office now," he called back, and having finished his information he vanished through the portal and strode off down the sidewalk.

Backus was quick back at the widow's side, taking from the housemaid the few things she had brought, and returning from the little table were the door.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

"I have to ask you to pour the tea," Mrs. Wilson apologized. "It's not so early in the day."

Hezekiah smiled and poured the tea, and then he turned back to the widow.

Edited by EDWIN MARKHAM John Vance Cheney and Roswell Field, Associate Editors

Reginald Kauffman's Powerful Story

A BOOK that distills, that flashes light, a book that will not let you rest, is the story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

"Bucky O'Connor" Would Make a Good Play

"Bucky O'Connor" William Markham. A story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Sketches of Delicate Fancy

"The Gossamer Thread" Verita Sherbert. A story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Crime and Criminals

"The Prison Reform League" has issued a small volume, dedicated to Tolstoy, on the subject of the treatment of criminals.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

Helen Backus, in the first place, was sister of the girl. In the second place, he was a prominent country lawyer, and was supposed to do what was expected of him by a generous railroad, not too much to do a great deal of good in his little sphere.

Fairview was proud of him because he had money and brains. It showed him to its own country; it showed him to his neighbors and his mother's daughter. It suffered his pig and chicken to be run over by his automobile, not neglecting, however, to send him in a bill for every execution of that sort.

Backus was big, warm hearted, smooth shaven, generous, indulgent of faults in other people, but withal kindly and well disposed toward all men who would, in turn, agree not to interfere with his small-ness.

The Beauty of a Village Diana

For one, who is the girl, she had all the enthusiasm of a high school romantic. With all the beauty of a village Diana, she was a little more than a village Diana. She was a little more than a village Diana.

It was a story of a girl, with a girl's heart and a girl's head, and how they met and loved each other and finally, after many days—had to go to it, just exactly as it all happened.

THE LITTLE MAGAZINE

SPECIAL LIMITED NIGHT SCHOOL OFFER FOR ENTIRE SIX MONTHS COURSE BEGINNING MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 3

Burdett. Quality Instruction in Bookkeeping, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Correspondence, Stenography and Touch Typewriting Assured Success. Speed classes for working stenographers.

NEW DAY STUDENTS ADMITTED EVERY MONDAY

18 Boylston St., or Washington St., Boston

FEDERAL MOVE TO DISSOLVE SUGAR TRUST

TO DISSOLVE SUGAR TRUST

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise will report here to-day, will begin an action next week to dissolve the Sugar Trust. Mr. Wise will be backed in his efforts by United States Attorney-General Wickesham.

Charges will be made to the United States Court complaining of fraud and conspiracy induced in by the trust to restrain both foreign and domestic trade in sugar.

The Sugar Trust was the greatest disappointment for the failure of the first suit to break the trust and during the Summer he had a fight with him Mr. Wise and Mr. Wickesham. It is believed that a new line of battle against the sugar interested in the new formed and that when the new suit is started will break the government monopoly supplied with new ideas.

It isn't what you pay for advertising. It's what advertising pays you. Advertising that pays is the only cheap advertising; advertising that doesn't pay is dear at any price. Advertising in the AMERICAN pays best, therefore it is the cheapest.

male swimmer of New England, in the special one-mile swimming contest, held off Steeplechase Pier. Miss Goding's time was 38m. 48.3-5m. Miss McElhannon covered the distance in 45m. flat

INVESTIGATE LYNN MEAT WEIGHTS

LAWRENCE, Sept. 17.—There was even more than customary secrecy about the grand jury deliberations for Essex county today, a case which State Officer Fred J. Flynn was interested, being under consideration. A report was that it had to do with alleged frauds in the weighing of meat, with Lynn concerns involved.

THE AVIATOR PLAYS "AVIATOR."
A sudden, but not serious, illness, resulting from some food at dinner that disagreed with him, kept Edward Ables from appearing in his title part of "The Aviator" at the Tremont Theatre last night. The author, James Moutsonroy, who took the part on a moment's notice, gave a very creditable performance. Mr. Ables will be able to resume his part to-night.

THE EVENING AMERICAN guarantees to advertisers the largest circulation of any far as an daily newspaper in Boston is concerned. Its circulation is the highest evening paper, and over 75,000 copies are sold daily. It is read by more than all the other Boston evening papers combined. Circulation books are all.

ELECTROCUTED ON POLE.

LYNN, Sept. 17.—Twenty-three hundred volts of electricity passing through his body, Harry Canning, 23 years of age, a salesman, was electrocuted here while working at the top of a pole for the Lynn Gas and Electric Company.

Amusements.

FOR THE FISHING GROUNDS

$4000

PLAY BALL!
Monday at 3

PITTSBURGH
Columbus Ave. Grounds

ATHLETIC MEET
United Spanish War Veterans
Calenderlin Grove, West Rebury
TODAY—SEPT. 17 ADMISSION, 25c

Tours and Travels.
JOY LINE
BOSTON
VIA $2.40 AND
RAIL BOAT

NEW YORK
New York, via Trenton and West, 8.45
Modern steel cars, 1st class
GEORGIA AND TENNESSEE.
Daily except Sunday
Between Providence and Pier 15,
East River, New York.
Through Pullman Cars, 1st class. Office
Boston, Boston, 500 N. R. M. and train from South Station at 5.50 P. M. connect at Providence with Pullman Cars, Steamship
NEW MANAGEMENT, IMPROVED SERVICE
City Ticket Office, 214 Washington St., Boston.

THE COLONIAL LINE
Via Rail and Boat
$2.65 BOSTON to NEW YORK
(Week Days and Sundays)
Ticket Office 256 Washington
Street, Boston
Phone Fort Hill 2788

NEW YORK
2.25
Providence
Post Office Squares Daily
and Sunday at 3 P. M.
Tickets and Intermailing
Pass. Dept. O. C. St. Ry.
Co., 100 Washington St.
Fall River 75c
Almost everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Who's Loony Now?

By T. E. POWERS

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Kennedy

That Democratic Victory in Maine Taught Several "Interests" Several Things

It Taught the Corporations That MERELY TO OWN A PARTY
Does Not Guarantee Control

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Kennedy

Did you ever see a nice, quiet old hen that had spent a virtuous life raising young chickens—WHEN SHE HATCHED OUT HER FIRST DUCK?

If you have seen such a hen, and have studied her expression when she saw the duck go into the water, you know about how the Republican party felt the other day when Maine went Democratic.

The Republican party has been hatching out Republican victories in Maine regularly, solemnly and easily—suddenly when this last hatching is over, the Republican chicken turns out to be a Democratic duck, and now Maine is swimming around in the Democratic water.

Every paper in the United States has had something to say about this "Democratic victory." The Republican papers EXPLAIN it, and the Democratic papers BRAG about it.

It isn't a "victory," Democratic or otherwise. It doesn't in the least mean that the people are tired of the Republicans, nor does it mean that the people have suddenly discovered virtues in the Democratic machine as such.

It does mean that the people, becoming independent, detest more and more the idea of being ruled by any machine.

The Boston American made a very strong fight in this Maine campaign.

Special Maine editions were published and distributed throughout the State—in addition to the many tens of thousands that the Boston American circulates in Maine daily.

When "the victory" was won, the Democratic Governor-elect, the managers of the Democratic party, various Congressmen and others wrote to W. B. Hearst and the Boston American, thanking them for having brought about a "Democratic victory."

There isn't any doubt at all that the Boston American was effective in expressing public opinion. But what won the fight was not the Democratic party, nor fondness for the Democratic party, but THE INDEPENDENT SPIRIT OF THE VOTERS, WHICH FOUND EXPRESSION THROUGH THE COLUMNS OF AN INDEPENDENT NEWS-PAPER, edited by an independent man.

The victory of the Democratic candidates in Maine is valuable, first, because it proves the power of INDEPENDENCE IN POLITICS, and, second, because it serves an important notice on the corporations THAT HAVE THOUGHT THEY COULD GOVERN THIS COUNTRY BY OWNING PARTY MACHINES.

It was the habit of the corporations to own the REPUBLICAN machine in Maine, with such a man as Hale in the Senate, and it was that habit of the same corporations to own the DEMOCRATIC machine in Texas, with such a man as BAILEY in the Senate.

Bailey and Hale from the Northeast and the Southwest, one Democratic and the other Republican, WERE BOTH CORPORATION SERVANTS.

This election in Maine shows the corporations that MERELY OWNING THE REPUBLICAN MACHINE DOESN'T MAKE THEM SAFE IN MAINE.

Another election may show them that merely OWNING THE DEMOCRATIC MACHINE DOES NOT MAKE THEM SAFE IN TEXAS.

The people are beginning to make up their minds, THAT ELECTION RESULTS OUGHT TO DEPEND UPON WHAT THE PEOPLE THINK, and no longer upon what the corporations PAY TO MACHINE MANAGERS.

Wherever the independence of the people, the protest against machine rule finds expression—as in this recent Maine election through Hearst's Boston American, there is a surprise awaiting corporations and machine bosses.

Maine has gone Democratic because the people had a chance to hear the issues discussed, because it was plain that to vote for the Democratic ticket was the best way to express disapproval of uninterrupted corporation Republican machine rule.

It was a good thing to beat the Republicans in Maine. And it might be just as good a thing, or better, to beat the Democrats in some other State to-morrow.

It is excellent for the corporations to realize that HIGH AS THEY ARE THE PEOPLE CAN REACH THEM.

It is well for them to learn that to own the Republican machine in the North doesn't make them safe; that to own the Democratic machine in the South doesn't make them safe; that to own both of the parties throughout the country is no longer a guarantee of safety.

For with both the Republican and Democratic machines in the hands of the corporations, there still remain the independent voters—a constantly growing body, and these are the voters destined to control in the elections of the future.

Nervo, the Monk

By GUS MAGER

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Kennedy

DR. PARKHURST'S ARTICLE

THE TROUBLE OF FINDING MEN TO FILL JOBS

Written for the Boston American

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Kennedy

MOST of our young men are ambitious, but only a part of them are willing to fit themselves for the thing that they are ambitious to be and to do.

Positions of influence and of financial advantage have to be earned by hard work in getting ready to fill them, and those who are not willing to put themselves to that trouble ought not to be envious of those who are willing and wise, in consequence, have much positions offered them.

Some years ago at a time when there were a great many unemployed it happened to be called upon by a gentleman from Connecticut who was engaged in a large business requiring a great many hands.

Trouble Finding Men for the Places.
In the course of our conversation I remarked upon the repeated applications that I had from people who wanted something to do, to which he replied that his difficulty consisted not in finding places for men, but in finding men for places—men, that is to say, that were skilled in the work he wanted done.

As a result of long observation and experience he expressed it as his belief that there was work enough in the world for people who were willing to do it, and especially for those who KNEW HOW to do it.

This conversation is recalled by a recently published letter from Mr. James A. Miller, of Jersey City, himself a large employer, and who writes feelingly about the matter in these words:

"The utter impossibility of obtaining skilled assistants in mechanical lines ought to alarm and drive us immediately into a systematic effort to train the young men growing up around us so as to enable them to meet the demand."

But affording young men the opportunities for becoming experts is of no advantage unless there exists among them a more earnest disposition to AVAIL of the opportunities and to lay the foundation of successful and lucrative life by going to the trouble of thoroughly and painstakingly equipping themselves.

Young men are in a hurry to be earning something, and, therefore, slip into the first hole of employment that offers, and ten to one spend their life in that hole and then complain that while others are promoted they are themselves held down to the bottom rung of the ladder.

Why So Many Experts Are Brought from Across the Sea.
That is the reason that so many of the experts in every line of employment are brought in from across the water. This is not due to lack of ability in young Americans, but to a lack of CULTIVATED ability, and to a prevalent disposition to look for quick success and to imagine that there is any good thing to be had in this world without learning it.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

We could hold neither the South, the Northwest nor New England if all their local concerns—even as with us the concessions of local authority to the individual States is a means of union rather than a cleavage line of disunion.

Hints to Woovers

By MERLE JOHNSON

RENT OUR "CHAPERON MUFFLERS," PATENT APPLIED FOR.